

Journal of Current Chinese Affairs

Guidelines for Authors

1. Language

The Journal of Current Chinese Affairs only accepts English-language articles. The author is responsible for correct language use. Manuscripts must not be published or under current consideration by any other publication.

2. Length

The length of the Research Articles is not to exceed 10,000 words (including abstracts and references). For Analyses 5,000 words should be normally the rule (also including abstracts and references).

3. Biographical note and abstract

All authors are asked to provide a biographical note, which should state the following: current occupation and/or academic title and institutional affiliation, scientific discipline, research interests and/or major current research projects, and the title and year of publication of one major recent publication (maximum 100 words) as well as postal and e-mail address, and website URL if available. Please keep in mind that all contributions are to be headed by an abstract of at most 150 words and three to four keywords.

4. Format

Please refrain from formatting! Eliminate all editing, formatting and automatic numbering. Send the text as a plain Word file. Please use a standard font (e.g., Times New Roman, 12 pt.). Bold or underlined text is not necessary. Please use left alignment (not "justification") and avoid word division in your text. Organise titles and subtitles using a clear hierarchy; please do not use more than three levels of headlines. Refer only to sections, not to specific pages. Please don't use footnotes! Use either British English or US English spelling and style conventions consistently throughout the text, and please be sure to write clearly and use correct punctuation; non-native authors are strongly encouraged to have their contributions proofread. Use double quotation marks inside the end punctuation (British) / outside the end punctuation (US).

5. Suggestions for consistency

Abbreviations such as e.g., i.e. without space; no space before ff. and f.; spell out numbers up to and including ten; spell out numbers at the beginning of sentences; use four digits for years, e.g., 1973; when referring to a decade write 1970s; percentages are always given as numerals; spell out the word "per cent" in text (use % only in tables, without a space between number and symbol); million and billion spelled out; for currencies use bank abbreviations (USD, EUR) before the figures; no URLs in text; state long names of institutions or organizations only the first time with their acronym in brackets, afterwards use acronym; do not italicize organization, party, agreement, or treaty names, only foreign technical terms and translated names from non-European languages.

6. Tables, graphs and images

Tables and images are to be numbered separately and continuously. Each should be provided with an individual caption and an exact reference. Tables, figures and images must not exceed 11 cm width and 15 cm height and may not be in landscape format. Text in tables and figures should be in a readable font size, normally 12 and not smaller than 10 points. Explanatory notes should be indicated with superscripted small letters, e.g. 4,5a. Units of measure should be indicated in column heads where appropriate, and numbers should be indicated in base units, millions or billions with a comma separating thousands; numbers with decimals should be separated with a point and normally be presented to the precision of two decimals. For graphs produced from spreadsheets or other tabulations, please provide the original spreadsheet files so that we can edit the format, and for other bit-map graphics (i.e., jpg, png, tiff, gif and bmp files) please provide any available source files that can be used for formatting the end document. As photos, graphs, and maps will be printed in a resolution of 600 dpi, we will need them delivered in as high a resolution as possible; we publish exclusively in black and white, so all colours will be reproduced in greytone. We therefore require all illustrations to have suitable contrast. It is the authors' responsibility to acquire written reprint authorisation from any third-party copyright holder and to provide a full reference to the original source.

7. References (Harvard Citation Style)

- References in the text:
Author/s publication date (and if needed): pp. For example: (Maihold 1996: 62-91; Johnson and Smith 2008; Cusack, Fitzgerald, and Hu 2001: 356; Interviews: Anonymous 1 2013; Anonymous 2 2014). If the source has more than three authors, name only the first: (Dombois et al. 1997). If different sources published in the same year by the same author are quoted, differentiate them with a minuscule (2000a, 2000b). Do not use ibidem or ibid.
- List of references at the end of the text:
All authors and sources quoted are to be listed in an alphabetical bibliography at the end of the text. Please check for completeness! For titles in non-European languages, please provide translation in brackets.
